

Program Requirements

The following listings describe the Clinical Psychology, Organizational Psychology, Health Psychology, and Culture and Human Behavior program requirements for the 1997-98 academic (and some previous) year(s). Program requirements are subject to change. Please note that the requirements differ substantially among the several degree programs and among options within degree programs. When changes occur, students will be notified by distribution of appropriate written information. If you have questions regarding these changes, the Registrar's Office or the Program Director will provide clarification.

Please remember that you are responsible for completing all requirements listed.
